Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Williams and their daughter, Mrs. M. Andrews, of the South district, attended the funeral of their nephew, John Fennell at Castleton last week Tuesday. Mrs. Williams remained in Castleton for a few days, returning to Dorset Saturday.

There will be a community celebration of Independence Day on the village green at Manchester, on July Fourth, at 8 o'clock in the evening. All residents of Dorset are invited to attend. In case of rain the celebration will be held on the following evening.

The well known Henry Family filled a three-nights engagement at School Hall the first of this week. They are a good company and the community showed their appreciation of their work by giving them full houses each of the three evenings. From here they went to South Shaftsbury where they will remain the rest of the week.

M. D. Matson died at the home of his brother, Jed Matson, in Danby, last week Thursday. The funeral was held Saturday and the interment was in the family plot in Maple Hill Cemetery. Rev. McIntire officiated. Mr. Matson is survived by his wife and two children, a son and daughter. Also by three brothers, Jed, John and Owen, and one sister, Mrs. Fernando Phillips, of Dorset.

The latest gift to the library furnishings is made by Mrs. Marcus V.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring, if your nerves are excitable, if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

Barbour and consists of a large leather tipped desk pad with safety ink well, a handsome skin for the reading table, and a desk scrap basket. Ever since moving into the new home gifts of furniture have been made from time to time by the library's friends that have added much to the attractiveness of the interior of the library.

During the month of July beginning Saturday the 1st, the library will be open on every day excepting Sunday from 11 to 12 A. M. for readers. No books will be loaned or returned at this hour; but all will be given an opportunity to enjoy a quiet hour with the books and magazines. Note—We are certain that this effort of the trustees will be appreciated by the public and that the reading room will be well patronized during the hour above mentioned.

On Saturday there will be held at the Dorset Field Club and on its grounds a War Relief Day for America and the Allies. A small charge will be made for all games and sports; also for refreshments. The proceeds will be used to purchase material for surgical supplies for the wounded soldiers of the American and Allied armies. For this day only the club and grounds will be open to all. This is a most worthy project and should receive the cordial support of the entire community.

The improvements at the Dorset Field Club are about completed and are not only neat and attractive, but will fill a long needed want. The "showers" and cake lockers for the use of golfers will be more than appreciated by them and the lockers snapped up rapidly. Louis Batchelder, the genial and capable manager of past years, will again be in charge and assume his duties Saturday. His presence assures patrons that they and their wishes will be well looked after and the club house and grounds properly managed.

Dorset Inn Notes

Tea was served Thursday afternoon to a few friends and guests. A cloudy afternoon was passed most pleasantly. Miss Elizabeth Ewing Pratt, Mrs. V. T. Pratt's granddaughter, and her nurse, arrived Saturday afternoon. Since it was the young lady's birthday several small guests and a birthday cake awaited her.

About 30 young people gathered at the Dorset Inn Friday evening for an informal dance. The gaieties ended with a hearty round of singing. The regular Thursday night dances for the Inn guests and their friends will begin July 6th.

Among the names of guests seen on the register of the Dorset Inn, are those of: Mrs. Wm. and Miss Mary Shaw of Bennington; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson of New York; Dr. and Mrs. Richard W. # Your Interests Are Linked With Ours

Before calling by telephone, consult the telephone directory and be sure to obtain the correct number. Mistakes often result from taking numbers from letter heads, business cards or private memoranda. Do not rely on memory.

Give the number to the operator distinctly and in a moderate tone of voice. With the lips about half an inch from the mouthpiece, speak clearly the name of the Central office and each numeral, separating the figures of the telephone number; for example, "Oxford, four-one-five-O" (4150.)

Listen when the operator repeats the number. Say "Yes" if it is right. If she does not quote it correctly, tell her so at once and repeat the correct number.

The received should be held at the ear until the called party answers or some report is given by the operator. As a matter of courtesy, the person making the call should be ready to talk as soon as the line is connected.

The identity of the person calling should be announced as soon as the called station answers. If a wrong station has been called, say to the person answering, "I beg your pardon, you were called by mistake." Signal the operator, state that a wrong connection was made and ask for the correct number.

The party calling should end the conversation by saying "Good-bye," leaving no doubt in the mind of the party called that the conversation has ended.

There are three parties to every telephone message: the person calling, the operator and the person called. Improvement in telephone service can be made, over and above all that the company can do, if the subscriber or user, when making a call, will extend his co-operation.
